Accompanied by a special military guard, appointed by Governor Byrd of Virginia, the gig is being transported to the Sesquicentennial at Philadelphia.

PIERCE WINS LION CUP JURY SCORNS KIDNAPING STORY

NO INDICTMENT ISSUED AFTER LONG HEARING

Insufficient Evidence is Verdict Of Jury After Hearing Four Days of Testimony

(By Universal Service)
LOS ANGELES, July 20.—The Los Angeles county grand jury wound up its four day probe into the alleged kidnapping of Aimee Semple McPherson late this afternoon and adjourned without returning indictments in the case. "Insufficient evidence upon which to return an indictment in the case" was the statement that came from the grand jury room following adjournment.

The grand jury made a formal report of its findings to presiding Judge Keetch.

According to foreman Carter the grand jurors gave the attorneys for Mrs. McPherson their opportunity to present all their testimony to substantiate the evangelist's story. The attorneys informed the jurors that they had presented all the evidence they desired.

The failure of the grand jury to return indictments means that Mrs. McPherson's story that she was kidnapped from Ocean Park beach on May 18 and held prisoner by "Steve" and "Rose" until she escaped from a desert shack and staggered into Agua Prieta, Mexico June 23 has not been substantiated before the inquisitorial body.

The McPherson case will not again be taken before the grand jury unless "new and vital evidence" indicating that Mrs. McPherson was really kidnapped is brought forward" according to District Attorney Keyes.

EARLY REPORT
LOS ANGELES, July 20.—Late this afternoon the county grand jury was reported to be voting on indictments against "Steve Doe," "Rose Roe" and "John Doe" as the alleged kidnappers of Aimee Semple McPherson.

The indictments were laid before the grand jury this morning after a summary of evidence in the case by District Attorney Keyes.

The grand jury adjourned at noon without having returned the indictments, and met again at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

District Attorney Keyes closed his part in the investigation by reading to the grand jury the letter he received yesterday from Kenneth G. Ormiston, former Angelus Temple radio operator. Ormiston's name has figured prominently in the investigation.

Ormiston denied having any connection with the case, and stated that he was unable to afford either the time or expense to come to Los Angeles and appear before the grand jury.

C. J. Matthews, temple worker, who received for the "Aimee O. K." telegram sent Mrs. Minnie Kennedy from Oakland on May 21, was not called to the stand by the district attorney.

The first witness called was Miss Alice A. Franck, of Venice boulevard, who declared it was she and not Mrs. McPherson that Captain Barnard and five other persons saw driving through Culver City late on the afternoon of May 18. Other witnesses offered by attorney's representing Mrs. McPherson were not called by the grand jury.

for 1927 will be held in Oakland. Thousands of women from all parts of the country will attend. New Orleans and Miami were strong contenders for the convention but it was decided to hold the convention in Oakland.

Miller Meets With Success In Campaign

JOHN A. MILLER

John Miller, candidate for county assessor blew into town last night, and departed early this morning, after four weeks of intensive canvassing in all parts of the county. Miller is making his canvass in just the same manner that he has done everything else, that he has undertaken—thorough. And the result of Miller's campaign will be just as much a success as the other things he has put through.

"It is just four weeks since I started out on my campaign," said Miller last night, "and I have been meeting with wonderful encouragement in all parts. I am putting in seventeen hours a day, starting out at 5 o'clock in the morning, and ending up the days work at 10 o'clock at night, but the farmers seem to be glad to see me. You know I was born and raised on a farm, and these early hours do not bother me at all."

"So far I have made a house to house canvass of three-fourths of the county, and the work will be kept up until every part of the county is covered. Tomorrow morning I leave for Crockett where I will spend the next four days, and from there I go to Concord. I have no fear of the result, but I am not neglecting any part of the field."

I really could not spare the time to come to Richmond tonight, I felt that my friends are taking good care of my fight for me in this section, but I just had to come and see my mother."

WORKER AT BRIDGE DROWNS

E. R. Bolincine, 25 lost his life yesterday afternoon when he slipped and fell while attempting to step from a float to the wharf on the Contra Costa side at the Carquinez bridge. According to witnesses Bolincine struck his head as he fell and failed to come up after he went under the water.

A diver who was sent down a short time later in an attempt to recover the body stated that he found it with his arms tightly locked around the bottom of the piling of the wharf.

A pulmotor had been rushed to the scene and efforts were made to revive Bolincine but in vain.

Coroner Charles F. Donnelly who took charge of the case had the body sent to Martinez and is making an investigation in an effort to locate relatives of the dead man. The only fact that had been established last night was that the man's home was somewhere in Kansas. He was employed as a dredgerman at the bridge.

Big Forest Fire Rages In the North

Additional Appropriation of $20,000 is Given Forestry Board to Aid in Firefighting

(By Universal Service)
SACRAMENTO, July 21.—Faced with a timber brush and high grass fire which was declared more than that of 1924 the state board of control today augmented the state board of forestry's fire-fighting fund with an appropriation of $20,000 from the state emergency fund, while the California Development association, contemplated calling out the five California Citizens' fire emergency committees to cooperate with governmental agencies in meeting the present menace.

With fires raging furiously on several fronts Deputy State Forester Rider announced that the $90,000 allowed in the governor's budget for timber and watershed protection has virtually been all obligated and estimated that most of the $20,000 made available today will go to pay bills in the emergency of the last two weeks.

State Forester Pratt and the Development Association officials left this afternoon for Redding, Shasta county, one of the major centers of fire fighting activities. Fires have been raging in Shasta county for nearly two weeks.

The Capay Valley fire in Yolo county which threatened Guinda for a time yesterday was partially controlled in the valley proper today but it had swept into the surrounding hills with 1,000 men battling it. The flames have swept through the hills towards Napa and Sonoma county according to report and also have spread toward Putah Creek district.

A new fire broke out this afternoon in Red River Lumber Company's holdings southwest Susanville, Lassen county. Approximately 10,000 acres have been swept over by the two place in Nevada county where firefighters are directing forces attempting to control two fires near Nevada city.

In Tuolumne county where the village of Quartz was wiped out yesterday rangers were still busy superintending crews which are combating the flames. Five fires in this county are estimated to have devastated thirty square miles with tremendous loss of property. Damage at Quartz alone was placed at $250,000. Forestry officials said there is reason to believe the Tuolumne fires are incendiary.

The fires in State protected districts of Siskiyou county were reported out today after burning over nearly 20,000 acres. In the Klamath National forest of Siskiyou and Humboldt counties however five blazes which have covered 25,000 acres were said to be raging.

WILBUR PIERCE WINS TROPHY IN ORATORICAL CONTEST AT CLOSE OF LIONS CONVENTION

WINS CONTEST

Wilbur S. Pierce, member of the Richmond Lions club who won state contest of Lion speakers in San Francisco yesterday.

San Rafael Takes Second Place In Field of Ten as Richmond Takes Prize

Wilbur S. Pierce, local attorney, and past president of the Lions club added to his already well known laurels as a speaker yesterday and brought fame and attention to the Richmond Lions' club and the city of Richmond.

Taking the lead over a field of ten competitors in a speaking contest which has been waged during the district session of the Lions in San Francisco which started Monday, Pierce yesterday afternoon took the trophy offered for the best five minute talk on the biggest accomplishment of a Lions Den during the past year, presented in the best manner.

Contestants in this event included representatives from Manteca, Porterville, Santa Paula, Pomona, Redondo Beach, San Rafael, Fresno, Berkeley, Sacramento and Richmond.

San Rafael took the second prize in the contest.

Pierce in his forceful manner told the story of how the Richmond Lions club had taken a youth who was seriously handicapped and after paying the hospital bills for medical aid bought him gifts and helped him in other ways so that he could play with his neighbors without shame and above all to give him an even break in the world.

This youth was afflicted with a harelip, a crushed palate and adenoids. The local Den took the boy under its supervision because the parents were unable to give the youngster the proper medical attention to give him an even break with the other boys. He was sent to the University Hospital in San Francisco where his physical defects were corrected and when he was brought home other attentions were given him. The Lions paid all the doctor and other bills and presented the

ENGLAND TO AID IN FIGHT ON RUM RING

(By Universal Service)

LONDON, July 20. General Lincoll C. Andrews, head of the prohibition enforcement department of the United States government, conferred with the British authorities today in his effort to put down rum running into the United States. At the conclusion of the meeting, General Andrews said:

"We have had the most satisfactory meeting that could be hoped for. The British representatives met us not only in the spirit of playing the game but were genuinely anxious to meet our difficulties and remove the troubles in our path."

"We have now got to the point where we have finished our examinations of present conditions and have appointed a committee of which Robert G. Vansittart, head of the American department of the British foreign office, is chairman."

"The committee will draw up definite administrative regulations. These will be submitted to Washington for approval."

"The cooperation we were given here was beyond my most sanguine expectations. We haven't had to ask—we've had suggestions offered us."

"My conclusion is that the British government is entirely with us to prevent law evasions. I expect a definite agreement on paper about next Monday. Although it must be understood that the British government does not propose, and we do not ask, any revision of any existing treaty. The work will entirely be confined to questions of general administration and alterations of existing ordinances."

"We have been met throughout with the best possible goodwill and helpfulness."

LEAVES ONE JAIL TO GO TO ANOTHER

Finishing one sentence on a liquor charge in the Alameda County jail yesterday, George F. O'Connor, 27, of Pinole began serving another sentence in the Contra Costa county jail. O'Connor was sentenced to serve twenty-five days in the Alameda jail on a charge of transporting liquor through Berkeley. He was arrested there when he attempted to move his household effect from his Pinole home which was destroyed by fire. In his automobile was found liquor and a part of a still, according to the officers.

The second charge preferred against him and for which he started serving his sentence in Martinez yesterday was that of possession of liquor. He pleaded not guilty to the charge when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Frank Glass yesterday and was fined $400. He reported himself without funds and began serving a 300-day jail sentence.

Before the fire was discovered at the Pinole home, Mrs. O'Connor, a bride of a few weeks, went to her sister's home in Berkeley accusing O'Connor of having driven her from the house.

Traffic Census Is Being Made

To secure an accurate count of automobile traffic on the state highway is being checked by a census now being taken. Traffic passing either direction on the state highway is being checked by a census taken at the junction of the Franklin Canyon-Rodeo highway.

KIDNAPING OF PINOLE YOUTH IS REPORTED

Believing that his thirteen-year-old step-son has been kidnapped, Lee Rollands, 3884 Loam Vista avenue, Oakland, notified the sheriff's office in Martinez. He stated that the boy, Berned Christianson, had been surreptitiously taken from his home in Pinole and was on his way to Portland, Oregon.

Sheriff Veal's office received their information from the sheriff's office in Oakland and places little faith in the kidnapping theory.

England Bars U. S. Musicians

LONDON, July 20.—The stringent British boycott of American jazz bands through fear that English musicians are unable to compete with them was maintained today when the ministry of labor refused a permit for Ben Bernie's band to appear at the Kit Kat club in Piccadilly for eight weeks, commencing September 13.

The ministry expressed opposition to the Bernie band entering the country for business purposes, reaffirming its policy to exclude foreign musicians, on the ground that there is sufficient talent here.

Mrs. Olive Rogers and Mrs. B. J. Ballantyne and two children are spending two weeks vacation on the Russian River where they have rented a cottage.

PRESIDENT SAYS THAT ECONOMY IS NOT "MYTH"

(By Universal Service)

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., July 20.—America can't stand still. She is growing by leaps and bounds, and the government will spend whatever money may be necessary to develop her natural resources in land waterways and other projects necessary to accommodate her growth.

That is in brief, the answer of President Coolidge to the Democratic charges that Coolidge economy is a "myth."

Though he came here for a vacation, he was today determined that the steady political assaults of the Democrats, now girding themselves for the important fall elections, shall no longer go unchallenged. President Coolidge, through the official spokesman, admitted that the government appropriations were $273,000,000 more than last year.

But $100,000,000 of that went into soldiers' bonus, he observed. About $25,000,000 additional was authorized for his national highway program, not counting the $165,000,000 outlay approved for the two years ending in 1929.

He initiated the first public buildings program in twelve years, authorizing $14,000,000 for this year and about $150,000,000 in the ensuing five years.

Prohibition enforcement will cost $13,000,000 more than last year, he noted. He approved an extra $10,000,000 for rivers and harbors in order that the Mississippi widening from St. Louis to Kansas City may be rushed along.

Increased pensions for Spanish and Civil War veterans totalled $5,000,000 a year. About $2,225,000 was allowed for modern quarters to supplant the war-time constructed military posts. Two millions was allowed for the sequelentennial, $2,500,000 for the new Arlington bridge at Washington and the judgments against the government in the Court of Claims increased $9,000,000. Refunds of the cigar and automobile taxes totalled about $5,000,000. In addition the postal employees received a substantial salary increase.

These amounts stated by the president practically account for the increase in the appropriations, but they do not include the $330,000 for repair of the White House roof which Democratic spokesmen have attacked as unnecessary.

President Coolidge it was said, will continue to join with congress against the unworthy projects which are proposed, but he is as fully determined to support the developments which a growing country demands.

He will not put as much money as possible every year into the sinking fund in order that the heavy interest on the public debt may be still further reduced.

NEW CABINET OF HERRIOT FACES END

(By Universal Service)

PARIS, July 20.—The Herriot cabinet faces certain overthrow in a special session of the Chamber Wednesday.

This is the almost unanimous opinion in political circles tonight after reviewing the new ministry's first disastrous day in office.

The new Finance Minister De Monzie formerly relieved Joseph Caillaux this morning and immediately called for the balance sheet. After nervously studying the figures De Monzie obviously was worried and went to the Bank of France and consulted the governor of the bank.

When the cabinet met this afternoon De Monzie flatly demanded that he be given powers almost identical with those Caillaux demanded declaring the government's financial situation was so serious any half way measure would be suicidal.

Herriot and the other Cartel ministers threw up their hands saying De Monzie was trying to make them ridiculous and declaring:

"After overthrowing Briand and Caillaux because they demanded full powers we cannot now ask the same thing for ourselves."

Therpen De Monzie issued an ultimatum threatening to resign. He backed up his argument with red ink figures he had gathered during the morning.

LLOYD GEORGE IN PLEA FOR DISARMAMENT

(By Universal Service)

LONDON, July 20.—David Lloyd George, former prime minister, today made another earnest plea for world disarmament.

Addressing the convention of World Christian Endeavor Societies he declared disarmament was the only way to secure permanent peace.

"We were brought up in a world which regarded armaments, with occasional wars, as part of the grim essentials of human civilization," he said. "Europe still is secretly dreaming of armaments."

"The most horrible and most devastating war will have yet to come unless our youth tears that idea from the heart of civilization."

"We cannot have peace without disarmament."

Charges Hurlled At Doctor By Mother of Pretty Nurse Who Died After Operation

(By Universal Service)

FRESNO, July 20.—Mark drama.

A tense courtroom. A mother fighting with words to avenge her daughter. The man she accuses—a prominent doctor—sitting there while she hurls her charges, his face averted, unmoving. A non-committal verdict by the jury.

Those were today's developments in the strange case of Lella Atkinson, the pretty student nurse who died here after an operation, and Dr. Carl H. McPheeters, the physician who loved her and who, with another surgeon, performed the operation.

The mother's dramatic appearance on the witness stand at the inquest this afternoon before Coroner J. N. Lisle, came with the effect of a bombshell, after a day of official investigation that left Dr. McPheeters clear of any criminal charge. The investigation was precipitated by the refusal of one physician to sign the death certificate, stating that Miss Atkinson had come to her death from peritonitis.

It revealed that Dr. McPheeters and the girl had traveled through the state as man and wife, and that the doctor had written her hundreds of flaming love letters. But it revealed nothing—nor did the autopsy last night—that would give ground for criminal charges, officials announced this afternoon.

Then came the inquest. Dr. McPheeters took the stand to tell that he performed the operation because in his professional opinion, it was necessary. The surgeons who assisted him testified. The autopsy surgeons said they found no evidence of any criminal act.

Then Mrs. Viola Atkinson, the mother of the dead girl, took the stand, and in an instant of humming routine of the inquest was gone, and there was drama.

"I stood right there in the room while Dr. McPheeters operated on Lella," she cried. "I saw him use a preterax after preterax to take the attention of the other doctors away from the operation."

"I saw him make a sudden incision and then grab for the needle. I knew then that something was wrong. I saw now that it was not an adhesion that killed my girl. I visited Lella while she lay dying. Mother," she whispered to me, "I want to tell you something—but I'm afraid."

"Lella had terrible letters from Dr. McPheeters. The awfulest letters any man ever wrote. And when she died he stole them from her trunk to cover up his terrible crime. Those terrible letters—they should be brought out to show the world what a beast he is."

"He said he was her friend. Oh, what a friend! God grant no other mother's girl may have such a friend. He told me he wanted to marry my girl when he could get a divorce from his wife; he said he was starting action in December."

"He took her to a San Francisco hotel and then stole her things to cover up his crime. Any man seeing those letters would say that hanging is too good for him."

"He ruined her—he fed her dope, morphine. I have some of that drug here—two bottles I found in her suitcase, and which he sent her."

She reached into her purse and handed to District Attorney Lovejoy the two bottles.

"He told her she had to take it, because of her head."

"I don't think there's a man in this room who has a mother or sister who would feel any different than I do!"

The mother collapsed. Sobbing, she was led from the room. Over in a corner, Dr. McPheeters sat without movement. His face was turned from the courtroom through Coroner Lisle said "That's all."

In an instant, McPheeters was up, and before any could question him, he had stepped into his automobile and driven away.

Fifteen minutes later, the coroner's jury came in with their verdict that Lella Atkinson died of several peritonitis, following an operation by Dr. McPheeters.

Authorities tonight admitted that the letters in the case would be turned over to postal inspectors for examination on charges of sending obscene matter through the mails. They further admitted that the dope charges, and the evidence produced by the girl's mother, would be given to federal investigators.

Dr. McPheeters, who is prominent in the activities of the First Presbyterian church here, is separated from his wife, who is now in Santa Cruz. He was a major during the war, and is now a medical major in the Reserve Corps.

The girl was formerly employed in his office. Last fall, she went to San Francisco as a student nurse. In February, she returned to Fresno, but in April returned to San Francisco, where she met Johnson, a Cloverdale rancher. It was on July 9 that Dr. McPheeters operated, to relieve what he termed a serious abdominal condition. On July 19, McPheeters, it is alleged, secured the trunk and letters, which have now been recovered by District Attorney Lovejoy, who is keeping their contents secret.

The authorities were told today of the last scene between McPheeters and the dying girl. Her relatives told the story.

He came to her bedside, they said. Lella opened her eyes and said him.

"You liar!" she screamed. "You liar! What have you done to me? I am going to marry in spite of you. Get out of here."

The doctor turned and left. He tried to return, but Johnson barred the door. Johnson wanted to marry Lella on her deathbed, but the family prevented because of her girl's condition, although she protested her love for him again and again.

After the autopsy here last night, the girl's organs were sent to San Francisco for tests and examination.

District Attorney Lovejoy expressed himself today as satisfied that Lella's death was natural as the result of the operation. He pointed out that two other physicians, Dr. E. C. Halley and W. F. Selin, were present and assisted in the operation, and that the girl's mother was in the room. To have attempted to kill the girl before all these witnesses would have been suicidal, Lovejoy says. Autopsy surgeons, in their report, pointed out that hundreds of cases of death from peritonitis, following operations, are reported annually. Their report completely absolves McPheeters.

Guston Borglum Now Plans to Live in Texas

By MABEL GOULDY

FOR WORTH (Texas), July 20.

Guston Borglum, sculptor of Stone Mountain fame, who has just announced his intention of making Texas his home, is interested in subjects other than art. Incidentally, Mrs. Borglum admitted to reporters that the idea of Texas as a home was news to her.

"But if any husband told me we were going to the moon I would begin to pack," she said, "because I could know he had found some means of getting there."

Borglum is in Fort Worth on route to San Antonio. He and Mrs. Borglum, accompanied by their son, James Lincoln, 14, and daughter, Mary Ellis, 10, are completing an automobile trip from Newark, N. J., where the sculptor has just finished a massive monument depicting American marines in the World War.

The Volstead act is regarded by Borglum as a failure that should be repealed.

"No one wants saloons," he said, "but neither does anyone want prohibition."

A modified form of prohibition similar to that practiced in Canada, where the government manufactures the liquor, distributes it and collects the profit is favored by Borglum.

By limiting distribution to one place one pint a week to each person drunkenness would be avoided and the present general winking at the law alleviated by believes.

"The manufacture of home brew can never be stopped entirely, but by repealing the Volstead act the lawless factor can be removed," Borglum said.

Agriculture is the real political problem, however, Borglum holds. "The party that aids the farmer is destined to live, and the party that disregards agricultural interests must lose," he said.

Borglum took a rap at the present administration by saying that "President Coolidge certainly is not to be congratulated on having a do-nothing Congress."

Key System to Enter Field Of Bay Auto Transportation And Improve Present Lines

Permission to install an automobile ferry service between San Francisco and Oakland and make improvements in its present interurban lines was asked yesterday from the state railroad commission by the Key System Transit company.

The plans of the company involve an expenditure of $4,000,000.

Requesting this permission, the Key System becomes for the first time a competitor in the automobile transportation across the bay.

Among the improvements planned by the company are the construction of an elevated viaduct to transport the automobiles from the mole to Oakland; and elevated system to carry the trains over the city of Emeryville; construction of a trestle to carry tracks on a direct line from Emeryville to the present mole and the operation of four ferry boats for the proposed auto-ferry system between San Francisco and Oakland.

The company plans to remodel three former passenger transportation ferries and the construction of the fourth to handle the automobile traffic.

The announcement of the plans of the company were made one day following the demand of Mayor Davies of Oakland in which he asked that the company's rates be reduced on the grounds that it had delayed making certain improvements ordered when a temporary rate increase was granted several months ago.

Other plans in the proposed improvements would include the building of another slip to accommodate the ferries and a roadway built from this slip to San Pablo Avenue.

Berkeley trains will be operated over an elevated system leaving Linde Avenue in Oakland, crossing San Pablo Avenue and dropping to the pier level.

The trestle will be used only for Berkeley and Claremont trains and is to be built to eliminate an "S" curve in the present line. Company engineers estimate that the cost of the project will be in excess of $4,500,000.

Benefit Show By De Molay Is Big Success

The final night of the De Molay show was last night with the biggest attendance on record. The first show was thronged and the last show had even a larger crowd.

The affair was given for the purpose of raising enough money to outfit the members of the local drill team with uniforms, and according to Walter Siegel, chairman in charge of the show more than enough money was received to purchase the necessary uniforms.

A Fox picture, news reel, cartoons, comedy and two acts of high class vaudeville featured the show. Johnny Toffin, local professional accordionist who has been a feature on the West Coast Circuit vaudeville, was the hit of the evening. His numbers were well received and brought a storm of applause.

Carl Kreutzen, the "boy soprano" contributed the other act of the bill and his numbers, proved to be a big success.

Siegel and his committee wishes to thank the residents of this city for the support they showed the chapter in their efforts, and that they make the event a success.

Expect to Expose Crime Ring In Clearing Up Murder of Ohio Editor

(By Universal Service)
CANTON, O., July 20.—Detectives in charge of the investigation of the killing of Don R. Mellett, late publisher of the Canton News, announced today they were nearing a solution of the crime. Ora Slater, private investigator, working for Prosecutor C. B. McClintock, is at the head of the detectives.

The solution of the slaying is expected to reveal an inter-city crime ring, operating between Pittsburgh, Canton and possibly Chicago. This was taken to mean that the underworld characters of both cities escaped from one state to another following a series of criminal acts.

Slater declared that there were few big developments but that the continued investigation had brought the solution to the puzzle nearer. Young women of Canton's brothels, who are said to have had some connection with George Psillas, alias "George the Greek," who was arrested in Pittsburgh for questioning in connection with the case, are said to have furnished the greatest information.

One of the girls is known as Mary Psillas. She said: "Please don't make me squeal he'll kill me if he ever finds out I told. I haven't seen him for several days, anyway, so I don't know where he has been."

"Bobbie," another of the girls, declared she knew nothing of George's whereabouts. Both of the girls were held for further investigation.

Slater, after questioning them declared he was not satisfied. "Pittsburgh reports," the detective asserted, concerning Psillas fail to account for two hours, just about the time of the shooting, of Mellett. I intend to find out where Psillas was during that time. George has not explained why he left his automobile at one spot, on an infrequent street, and walked two or three blocks on the same street. That seems strange to me."

TAKE OAKLAND JAIL BREAKER TO SAN QUENTIN

(By Universal Service)

OAKLAND, July 20.—"I'm glad it's all over—that I'm bound for prison to serve my jolt for I'll be free when I come out again. I'd rather be in prison than be outside with the fingers of the law reaching for me—always reaching."

So declared George L. Hobbs, 32, who was taken to San Quentin to begin serving a sentence of from one year to life on a robbery charge eight years old. Seven years ago Hobbs and three other prisoners slugged Jailer Sam Vandervoort into unconsciousness and made their escape from the Alameda county jail.

He has been at liberty since in San Diego. A traffic officer who was pursuing another machine arrested Hobbs and some friends when they pulled up at the roadside thinking that they were the offenders.

"When I faced the Bertillon test I knew the jig was up and it was. I didn't commit the robbery that I was charged with but I pleaded guilty when I got back. I knew it was the only way out."

Brittania may rule the wave but Columbia rules the permanent wave.

The two asked to be shown a number of costumes, but watched Vivian more than the models. They seemed surprised and even displeased at her radiant beauty.

Nowhere else in the United States is hydro electric power so abundant, so cheap and so commonly used as in California.

Hydro electric power is abundant in California because nature has given us mountains and rivers of falling water.

It is cheap and commonly used because the inventions and economies of the power companies, coupled with State regulation of rates and service, have made it available for factory, home and farm.

Rates in California are low. Service is a model for the rest of the United States.

Since 1913 the average per capita cost of living increased 65%, while the average cost of electricity decreased 8%.

CONDEMNATION SUIT FOR PIPE LINE TO START

MARTINEZ, July 20.—Trial of condemnation proceedings instituted by the East Bay Municipal Utilities District against the C. A. Hooper company of Pittsburg will start tomorrow in the court of Superior Judge, A. H. McKenzie. The proceedings seek to condemn a strip of land five miles long running through the Hooper company's land near Pittsburg for the use as a pipe-line right-of-way in the Mokelumne project.

The case was originally slated for today but was held over until tomorrow when a venire of 36 jurors was exhausted. A new venire including several Richmond residents has been drawn and

REALISM IS FEATURED IN LOCAL FILM

Realism—with a capital R—is the outstanding characteristic of Paramount's gripping romance-drama "The Rainmaker," which comes to the California Theatre today and tomorrow.

Ernest Torrence, William Collier, Jr. and Georgia Hale were the featured players in this stirring picture. The story is based on the widely read magazine story, "Heavenbent."

The atmosphere of the race track around which the early part of the action centers is real, typical and vividly picturesque. Clarence Badger, the director filmed a series of racing scenes, that are said to be the last word in thrill and excitement.

A dozen famous jockeys on an equal number of thoroughbred race horses stage a real race in which Collier participates. While in the lead the hero is thrown from the horse and trampled upon by the screaming spectators, while the thousands in the stands react to the horror of the accident.

Again, in one of the latter sequences of the picture, Badger has reproduced with amazing fidelity a dance hall scene of other days. The realism here is heightened by a direct hand-to-hand battle in which several hundred men take part.

The latter events of the story occur in a little border town in the Southwest, and it is here that the plot reaches a tremendous climax. The whole town is stricken with the plague through lack of water; a raging fire breaks out; it looks as though the town is doomed. Then comes a big, emotional moment when the jockey prays for rain and his prayer is answered by a spectacular cloudburst.

Through the veneer of the race track, the dance hall, the fire and flood, there flashes forth a fine and human and sincere story of romance and regeneration as has never been seen on the silver screen. Other features include "There He Goes," a Harry Langdon comedy; "Hodge Podge," "International News," and Larry Canelo at the organ.

has been summoned to appear in McKenzie's court tomorrow. A conference between the Hooper Land Company and the officials of the district attempting to reach a satisfactory agreement for the purchase of the land failed.

At the present time the city trustees of Pittsburg are discussing the feasibility of securing water from the district. In a letter to City Manager Roy Watson, two methods were outlined by Arthur P. Davis, general manager of the district.

The first method is the one held most feasible and it calls for Pittsburg to join the district. This plan is also being considered by Walnut Creek. The second method is for Pittsburg to file upon their own water rights at the same point of diversion on the Mokelumne river as selected by the district, and is to arrange with the district to deliver the water.

Under the district's permit from the state, Davis says, they are prohibited from selling water to consumers outside the district. The following venire of jurors has been summoned for examination:

Travis M. Boone, dw. Reinick, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, Daniel P. Winnegar Jos, Peters, Samuel R. Longwell, Melvin Elroy, F. B. Schow, H. J. Byrne, John E. FINANCES START NEW BATTLE IN FRENCH BODY

PARIS, July 20.—Already the new Harriot Ministry appears to have encountered serious difficulties in its task of attempting to put France on her feet financially.

After a lengthy meeting of the cabinet held last night it was reported this evening that M. De Monzie, the financial genius who accepted the portfolio of minister of finance under the Premiership of Edouard Herriot, had decided the crisis could not be solved unless the government granted him full powers, and had given up his post. This report was not confirmed from any official source.

The report had it that De Monzie had demanded a free hand before he would attempt to deal with the critical situation, but that his colleagues refused to acquiesce in his proposal.

The ministers, according to alarmist rumors current throughout the city, are widely divergent on the nature of the financial program to be adopted. After the Cabinet meeting broke up this evening Premier Herriot hastened to the Elysees Palace to inform President Doumergue of what had occurred, and to learn the chief executive's views.

boy with a wagon, the one thing he said he wanted most of all.

Pierce's account of this work of the local Den brought tears to the eyes of his large audience with his oratorical ability as he related the story of how the youth had been helped to overcome his handicaps.

The cap which is a perpetual one will be presented to Pierce at the session of the local Lions next Tuesday. It will remain in his possession until next year when it will again be put up for competition at the district convention. In case any den holds it for three consecutive years it becomes the property of that club. The cap originated in Sacramento two years ago, when it was won by the Hollywood Den. Last year it was captured by Long Beach and this year it will rest in Richmond and according to some of the local Lions who attended the session in San Francisco yesterday it will find a permanent home here.

During the business session yesterday, W. E. Strel of Oakland was named as district governor for the ensuing year and Riverside was selected as the meeting place of the 1927 convention.

The district convention endorsed among other resolutions one calling upon the international body to organize Junior Lions dens throughout the nation. These Junior dens, a number of which are at present proving popular in the southern part of the state, carry out the code of ethics of the Lions and assist in making good citizens out of young men. The resolution will be referred to the international convention which will start this morning.

Denny Shaw as convention pianist made a hit with the visiting delegates in San Francisco yesterday and received many compliments for his work in both solo numbers and in accompanying soloists and others.

Sada Cowan and Howard Higgin made the screen adaptation of "The New Commandment" from Colonel Frederick Palmer's great novel, "Invisible Wounds." Howard Higgin is also responsible for the film's nonpareil direction.

Other features on the same program include "Should Sailors Marry," a Clyde Cook comedy; and "Prigima," the screen magazine.

Los Angeles Pair Are Impressed With New Hotel

"You should be proud of your new Hotel Carquinez," said Mrs. Emma C. Arenz of Los Angeles who with her daughter Miss Lois J. Arenz and another Los Angeleno, Charles W. Hackler are registered at Richmond's community hotel, officially opened last Saturday under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce.

"Until we read of the Hotel Carquinez in a Los Angeles paper we didn't know that Richmond boasted of a first-class hotel," she added.

Mrs. Arenz, her daughter and Hackler were hosts at a dinner party to twelve held last night at the hotel. A married daughter, the latter's husband and several other relatives and friends of Mrs. Arenz made up the gathering.

THE LATE PERCY HAUGHTON

Time was when John Crimmon Harvard, now kicked and otherwise manhandled by even lowly colleges, heretofore looked down upon, ruled the country's lime slatted battle fields. They were the halcyon days when the late Percy Haughton gripped the reins of the almighty Harvard teams. When a Brickley, a Casey, a Mahan, or an Owen ran wild through Princeton and Yale and all-American eleven were splashed with crimson.

Football scribes lauded the Haughton system from coast to coast. Harvard was the last word in football. The famous system was but a triple threat play, a superplayer placed in an attacking formation where he might kick, pass, or run the ball with equal skill. The opposing teams were only partially prepared to meet one of them and Crimmon triumphs resulted. It was psychology, pure and simple. We cannot help but wonder if Harvard's success in those days would have been anything but mediocre if Haughton had not been blessed with such wonderful stars as Brickley, Mahan, Casey, Owen and Hardwick. Without Red Grange, Illinois would be helpless. Zuppke used the red head much the same as Haughton used his great back and with even greater success. Percy Haughton's success did not follow him to Columbia. Koppische, Columbia's great halfback, was a great player, but could scarcely be called a Mahan. Football players are born and not made and although Percy Haughton is considered one of the best coaches on record, he could do no more than the next man without material.

Knute Rockne, great mentor of Notre Dame, who has coached almost unbeatable South Bend eleven for years, perhaps developed everything before them from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The last glorious ride of the four horsemen of Notre Dame over Leland Stanford on the coast will always be remembered as long as the game lasts. Experts of the sport have conceded that Crowley, Layden, Walsh and Stuhldreher was the greatest backfield that ever ran a ball. Rockne's teams are light, but he instills such fire, fight and football into his teams each year that they are feared on every gridiron.

They are machines and not one man aggregations. When Harvard uncovers another superman in moleskins, they may again rule the big three. They might again reach the heights if they could get a Knute Rockne. This year, without his great backfield, he has done remarkably well. They have lost but one game, that to the powerful Army team. They are living up to the Rockne system, a system spoken of with respect from the lowly grammar school coach to the college mentor throughout the land.

ALBANY TRAFFIC OFFICER SUED FOR DAMAGES

Damages amounting to $51,000 declared to have been sustained when he was assaulted last July by Frank Davis, Albany traffic officer, is the basis of a suit being held in the Superior court of Judge Stanley Murray of Oakland. The suit was filed by Fred W. Schultz, Colusa farmer.

Schultz claims that the assault occurred following his arrest by Davis on a charge of speeding through Albany.

Davis has filed a cross complaint in which he charges that Schultz was speeding thirty-six miles an hour in a fifteen-mile zone and says he was forced to use his club on Schultz. In his suit, Davis seeks damages amounting to $10,000 for injuries which he claims he received in the battle.

Commission Rules No Dempsey Bout for N. Y.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Prospects for a bout in this city involving Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney and the world's heavyweight title received another clip on its long suffering chin this afternoon when the New York State Athletic Commission by the usual vote of two to one refused to reopen the subject or to change its original stand against such a bout.

A little bit of cold cash. The cold cash amounted to a slight sum of $19,585.55. That $5 cents must be for tobacco money for the champion.

P. A. signifies Pleasure Always

PROVE it, for instance, with a home-rolled cigarette. Get yourself a tidy red tin or a toppy red bag of Prince Albert and make a cigarette today. There's pleasure even in rolling it. The tobacco is crimp-cut and doesn't dance out of the paper. Saves time, temper, tobacco.

That's a detail, of course. But just put one of these cigarettes between your lips and light it. Man, oh, man—what a wonderful taste! Cool and refreshing. Sweet and fragrant. Mellow and mild, but with a body that satisfies all the way down. You'll say so.

Sooner you get going with some P. A. and the makin's papers, the sooner you'll know what a grand and glorious tobacco Prince Albert is for cigarettes. There's a P. A. sunshine shop not far from here where they hand out Pleasure Always in tidy red tins and toppy red bags.

Incidentally, if you smoke a pipe, try a load of Prince Albert this way. P. A. will make your old jimmy-pipe yield more downright smoke-pleasure than you ever thought possible. It will for a fact. The tobacco's the thing... how you smoke it is optional.

PRINCE ALBERT

—no other tobacco is like it!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins and toppy red bags. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Statement By Churchill On U. S. War Loans to England Are Refuted By Mellon Aide

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, July 20.—Official records were produced today by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Winston to refute statements in the House of Commons by Winston Churchill, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, that all of the loans made by Great Britain and the United States during the war were for distinctly war purposes.

Vast sums of money were spent by Great Britain under credit advances by the United States for purposes other than purchase of munitions and foodstuffs, according to Winston.

Churchill's boast that Great Britain put up $3,000,000,000 for war supplies "from independent resources," was met by Winston with the statement that Great Britain advanced in this way exactly $760,128,926.52.

Winston backed up the statement by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon on Saturday that much of the money which Great Britain borrowed from the United States during the war was used to meet commercial obligations in this country and not for distinctly war purposes.

Although Winston did not say so in his prepared statement, other Government officials here regarded the charges made in the British House of American "commercialism" in settling her war debts as peculiarly ill timed, in view of the desperate plight of France.

The question was asked: "Is Great Britain seeking to advance her interests as the friend and benefactor of France in her trying hour by putting the United States in the role of a Shylock?" Nearly $2,000,000,000 of the sum mentioned by Churchill was spent by Great Britain merely as an agent for the other allied nations, which took the supplies and reimbursed Britain for their purchase, according to the treasury statement and their payments to Britain were made from funds loaned to them by the United States, added Winston.

He places the total of British expenditures in this country from 1917 to 1920 at $7,219,408,669.

From this sum "there should be deducted $1,853,000,000 expenditures for which Great Britain was simply the purchasing agent for the other allies and for which Great Britain was paid by the other allies from money loaned to them by the United States," said the statement. It continued: "This amount was not provided from England's own independent resources. This leaves $5,366,000,000; of this amount $1,682,000,000 represents 'exchange and cotton purchases.'"

The greater part of this expenditure was for the maintenance of sterling exchange, not necessary for purchases in America, but which enabled England to make purchases in other countries at an undepreciated exchange rate.

Two billion six hundred and forty-three million was for food and tobacco. A part of this item is probably included in the account out of which England was reimbursed by the other allies and a part was resold by England to its own civil population.

To the extent of this resale England avoided the necessity of floating loans in its own country.

Five hundred and seven million eight hundred and seventy-seven thousand dollars was for interest and principal of England's commercial obligations maturing in America; $201,000,000 was for silver.

The total principal advances to England after the armistice were $581,000,000.

The manner in which Great Britain met these expenditures was summarized by the treasury as follows:

By reimbursement from other allies out of funds loaned by the United States	$1,853,612,246.37
By dollar payments by the United States Government for British currencies	449,496,227.55
By proceeds of rupee credits in gold from India	$1,352,908.06
By cash from Britain's "own independent resources"	760,128,926.52
Funded in debt settlement with the United States	4,074,818,358.44
Total	$7,219,408,669.94

Bones of Camel Two Million Years Old Found in Montana

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, July 20.—The bones of a camel that flourished 2,000,000 years ago have been dug up near Belgrade, Mont., while the skull of a horse that lived anywhere from 10,000 to 500,000 years ago has been discovered in a placer gold mine in Alaska, the Smithsonian Institution announced today.

The camel closely resembles the modern-day variety, except that it was larger and had more teeth. The find strengthens the theory that if the species did not originate in North America, it had a great part of its development here.

The prehistoric horse was about the size of a polo pony, but its conformation was quite different from that of the modern horse, the skull indicates.

GUEST AT CARQUINEZ

M. M. Ritter, of San Francisco, was registered at the new Hotel Carquinez yesterday.

BOUNTY ON CANINES IN PITTSBURG

Is Pittsburg being ruled by a reign of terror brought on by an army of unlicensed cur dogs? City Manager Roy Watkins, of that city, says, "yes," and he is offering a bounty of 50 cents to every boy who will capture an unlicensed dog.

The whole trouble started when August Rodgers, poundmaster told the world he was through leading a dog's life and throwing down the gauntlet he quit.

The news of his resignation had barely left the city hall before an alley pup dashed down the city hall steps with a joyful bark and told his many friends that their Nemesis had departed, gone, resigned and otherwise had quit.

Whereupon, the city manager declares, the dogs, big ones, little ones, and all sized ones have started trouble. Watkins declares that more than one complaint has been brought in to him to the effect that dogs have been tearing up flower gardens, uprooting flowers and in general spoiling the work of some gardener.

Watkins also declares that one family moved from Pittsburg because the mother of the family was superstitious and thought that the howling of the cur meant a death in the family.

The dogs, so the residents of the up county town say, are still patrolling the streets and in the mean time Watkins has come forth to meet the crisis by offering a bounty and announcing that he is ready to receive applications for the job of poundmaster.

Order Return of Cash to Ferry Stockholders

The state railroad commission yesterday ordered the immediate return of $62,000 to stockholders of the Richmond-San Francisco Ferry company of which M. Emanuel, of San Francisco, is president. Copies of the order have been received by Richmond stockholders.

The funds of the company now in bank amount to $63,665.12 of which amount the commission allows $1,165.12 to cover the expense of returning the funds and closing the affairs of the ferry company. Any residue of this amount after the expenses of returning the funds are to be returned to the stockholders.

The order reaffirms the decision of the commission of refusing Emanuel $10,000 requested for rentals, attorney fees and other expenses in addition to the fifteen percent he was originally allowed for promotion expenses.

Action to secure the return of the funds was started by Richmond stockholders headed by O. R. Ludwig. Two commission hearings and court action was necessary to complete the case. The stockholders were represented by attorney Delancy Smith, of San Francisco.

The amount subscribed for by the stockholders was $65,500 of which amount Emanuel was allowed fifteen percent for promotion expenses. The funds were impounded in a San Francisco bank pending the completion of the financing. Interest accumulating over the five years since the project was started has almost amounted to the amount of the promotion costs.

QUEEN RACE FOR PINOLE CARNIVAL ON

Pinole Prepares for Big Industrial Exposition to be Shown There in August

With six contestants running a hot race for the honors of Queen of the Pinole Industrial exposition to be held in that city on August 11, 12, 13, and 14, boosters of the event are laying final plans for the affair.

C. L. Townes of Pinole, manager of the industrial exposition was in this city yesterday and discussed plans for the participation of Richmond organizations in the affair. He conferred with Mrs. Marie Macdonald Jensen, secretary of the Richmond Merchants' Association on that organization's participation in the event. The local association had a booth at the exposition last year.

Every corner of Contra Costa county is to be represented in the hundreds of exhibitions which will be on display during the four days. Practically every organization which exhibited last year has signified its intention of having another exhibit at the fair this year.

A committee from the Pinole Chamber of Commerce is arranging the events. It is planned to put the show under local management this year instead of hiring an entire organization as was done last year.

The exhibits are to be on display under a tent 150 by 50 feet which is to be placed on the Pinole tennis courts.

First Act of New Business Man Is To Join C of C

The first act of Hugo Mayer when he decided to establish an exclusive gentlemen's furnishing store, suits, shirts and other articles, was to join the Richmond Chamber of Commerce.

Mayer knows the value of a chamber of commerce to a community. He secured information from the local chamber—data on payrolls, tax rate, population, school attendance, number of wage earners and other facts.

Then he made up his mind to start a business here. It was then he walked into the chamber of commerce with his checkbook and said to Mrs. Helen Kingsbury, acting secretary:

"Your chamber of commerce has been a great help to me."

"Your chamber of commerce is a fine asset for the city. I want to be a member. Here is a check for my dues. Every business man owes it to himself and the community in which he does business to belong to a chamber of commerce. It is an organization which thinks in terms of the community and is to the forefront for all civic improvements. A good chamber of commerce brings a lot of business to a city and the Richmond Chamber of Commerce is on its toes every minute from my experience. It helped me locate here and I feel grateful for that help. Count me henceforth as an active, willing member of the chamber."

MAYOR WALKER OFFERS HELP IN BIG STRIKE

(By Universal Service)

NEW YORK, July 20.—Mayor James Walker told the striking subway motormen and switchmen today that he is ready to act as mediator in their differences with the company.

He asked them to name a committee to meet him later and said he would try to have company officials present. The mayor added that he is in sympathy with labor since his father was a laborer.

He commented the men on the orderly way they have conducted the strike.

The company is rapidly getting into a position to say there is no strike. Services appeared to be normal today and company officials say it is 89 percent.

Seek Extradition Of Minister to Face Murder Charge

(By Universal Service)

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—Sheriff Sam Jernigan of Orange county was seeking extradition papers today for Rev. Philip Goodwin, arrested in New York as a suspect in the slaying of Joseph J. Patterson, his former roommate. Patterson's body was found last March in the Santa Ana River bed.

Search was also being made for Abe Dewey, said to be a former Utah cowboy, with whom Goodwin is said to have associated before leaving for the east. Dewey is said by Rt. Rev. Gregory Lines, bishop in Los Angeles of the American Catholic church, to have agreed to finance Goodwin's trip east. Goodwin, an actor, and former assistant of Rev. Lines, planned to produce a vaudeville act as a means of raising money for a new church in Victoria.

According to Sheriff Jernigan, suspicion rests on Goodwin because of his departure from Los Angeles about the time that Patterson disappeared.

Goodwin when arrested at the National Vaudeville Artists club in New York indignantly protested his innocence. The warrant for Goodwin's arrest was sworn to by R. E. Patterson, brother of the dead man. Patterson arrived from Miami last week and identified the body by a belt buckle and crystal charm of odd shape.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Miller of Mira Vista have returned from a motor tour of Oregon.

ANTI-STRIKE BILL WANTED BY COOLIDGE

(By Universal Service)

PAUL SMITH, N. Y., July 20.—On the hottest day since he reached the Adirondacks, President Coolidge today let it be known he is hopeful that the next session of congress will pass adequate legislation to prevent future coal strikes and the consequent suffering by the public.

President Coolidge wants an anti-coal strike bill passed which will:

1—Give the President authority to appoint a national commission to conciliate a threatened strike or to fix the blame upon the side which declines to negotiate.

2—Authorize the President to appoint a coal administration with power to check profiteering and to distribute available coal equally among the states.

It was said for the President that probably the operators and miners could effect a great amount of public good by getting together now upon the basis of anti-strike legislation, just as the railroad executives and employees worked out the Watson-Park-Peace Bill passed by the last congress. He does not intend to ask them to a conference.

Large Teams Are Again Popular

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, July 20.—"Big teams" of 12 to 20 horses, that flourished in the days of the covered wagon, are coming into vogue again in the "dry farming" areas of the far west, the Department of Agriculture announced today.

Where food is cheap and home-grown, big teams of horses are still cheaper than tractors and other mechanical devices, the department said.

The use of larger teams a means of economy is recommended for the wheat states and the corn belt.

This City Said to Be Best in Region For Building Loans

"Richmond is looked upon as the most substantial city in the bay district in which to make building loans," according to L. N. Burgess, representing the Anglo Securities company of San Francisco, which is now building thirteen homes in Richmond for Richmond home owners.

Burgess called at the Chamber of Commerce to secure facts about Richmond. Speaking of the operations of the company he represents which is identified through its directors with the Anglo-California Trust company and the reason it makes loans in Richmond, Burgess said:

"We find a most substantial citizenship here. Home building is not speculative. The home owners themselves seek loans and we are glad to accommodate them. In other words there are no speculative values in your home building construction. Homes are built to live in by the owners themselves. This means better and more substantial citizens, more reliable men and women with whom we are happy to do business. Richmond is growing fast. Our principal business in the Eastbay is done in Richmond. There are no inflated land values here as found elsewhere in the bay region."

Mrs. and Mrs. Ira Bonham of Fourth and Bush street, San Pablo were visitors in Calistoga last week where they visited Mrs. Bonham's sister, Mrs. Ida Williams.

WHY THEY ADVERTISE

Newspapers of the United States carried $720,000,000 worth of advertising during the year 1925, according to William A. Thompson, director of the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, who testified recently before the federal trade commission. Of this amount $500,000,000 was spent in local advertising, the remaining $250,000,000 representing the amount spent in advertisements of national circulation.

These figures show something of the faith that the American business man has in the value of newspaper advertising. This form of publicity must pay, or the advertisers would not be spending three-quarters of a billion dollars annually on it. The keen business leaders of America do not put money in losing ventures.

It is doubly significant that two-thirds of this great sum, a half billion dollars, went into the so-called local newspapers, while only one-third of the amount went into the national publications.

Evidently it pays not only to advertise, but to advertise in your local newspaper. When we think of the value of the local newspaper, we usually measure it in terms of its worth as a collector of news and a moulder of sentiment in the community. But the value of a newspaper as an advertising medium is great, too, not only to the business man, but to the general public. It is through advertising in his local paper that the progressive merchant gets his goods before the people. And it is by reading the advertisements that the public learns where it can spend its money economically for reliable goods of the kind it wants.

THIS IS ENCOURAGING

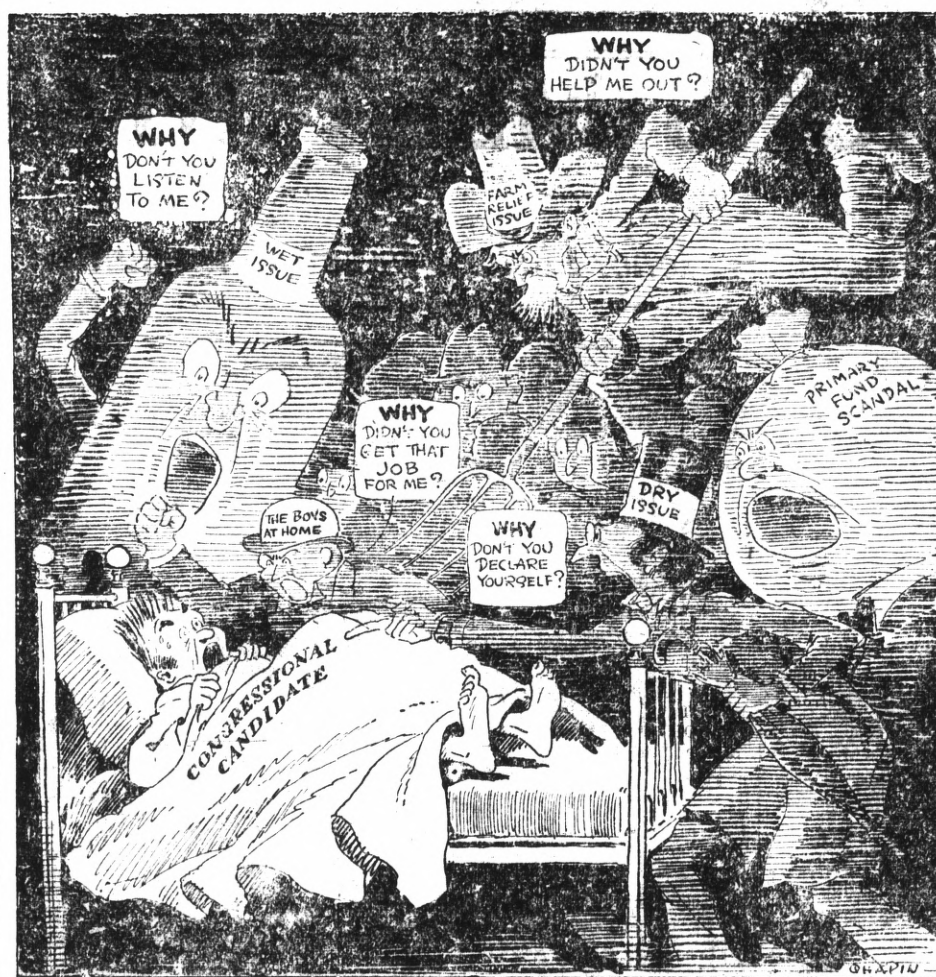

It is encouraging to know that all the literary lights and other forward lookers who come from Europe to lecture us are not of the socialist or parlor pink brand. One of the latest to come from Great Britain is Gilbert Frankau, the London novelist. Mr. Frankau recently spoke in Chicago and it is said he spent some of the time in rapping the socialist piffle of Mr. Shaw and others of his British contemporaries, instead of lecturing the people of America on their duties to the world.

Mr. Frankau said: "I hate these communists who come here from my land with balderdash and bunk. I tell you there'll never be socialism in England. There are two million young men like yourself who won't stand for it." We will all hope that Mr. Frankau is right.

PROHIBITIVE FIGURES

The prope which has been started by the appointment of a committee of the United States senate to investigate expenses in Pennsylvania and other states is some job and the committee will find a lot of money spent foolishly and extravagantly and it may find some spent illegally. But, as we have pointed out before there are legitimate expenses of running for office which are apt to make a prohibitive figure for all the wealthy where the nominations are made by direct primaries. Of course an aspirant would not have to spend a lot of money, but if he got into a good healthy contest he couldn't hope to get anywhere unless he did. The days of the direct primaries may be numbered. We hope they are.—Hartford Courant.

ROBERT TODD LINCOLN

Abraham Lincoln once said of his son, Robert Todd, "He's one of the rare-ripe sort that are smarter at five than ever after." But Lincoln was mistaken.

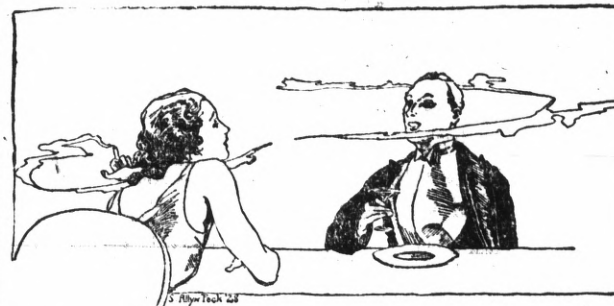

Robert Todd Lincoln, until about fifteen years ago was an international figure, having been Minister to England, Secretary of War in the cabinet of President Garfield, and President of the great Pullman company.

For almost two decades however the world has heard very little of Lincoln's son. He keeps himself in strict retirement and never makes even the briefest public statement.

His home is in Georgetown, D. C.

Judging by the intelligence of the average jury, trial by jury is a graver risk than the crime itself.

Make Fun and Life your native locale. Turn off the Dullness and turn on the Shine. Open your casements to the sunlight. Living, flaming youth is more a matter of mind than of muscle. Time spent in sport is so valuable that it is hard to reckon. There are seven days in every week when you ought not to spend wonderful hours in talking to your husband about maids' wastefulness and gas bills.

Laughing in public and scolding in private is a poor way to court popularity with a husband.

Do you always have to entertain visitors in your home if you want to hear a rollicking good story?

UNCLE EPH SAYS THAT HIS NEPHEW'S MOTHER-IN-LAW HAS A BAD EYE, AN' IF SHE WAS A HORSE, HE WOULDN'T BUY HER.

THE MOTHER OF MARY PICKFORD

Those who are familiar with the career of Mary Pickford know that a close partnership there has been between her and her mother. Our Mary is blessed with enough of all those attributes which force success but it is a question if she would be the millionairess she is today if it had not been for her mother. Together they fought their way from the furthestest obscurity to the pinnacle of cinema achievement.

Mary Pickford was born in Canada, her real name being Mary Gladys Smith. This unwieldy moniker was later changed when Mary came under the directorship of David Belasco. Her childhood was passed in a sea of tribulations in which Mrs. Smith tried heroically to keep Mary, Lottie and Jack out of the shallows. An episode that will show what that struggle was told by Mary herself, as follows:

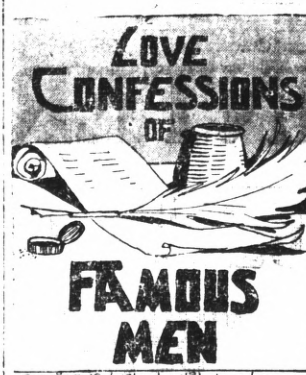

"My mother sewed and I acted child parts although neither of us earned much. Then after a year or two I was given a leading part in a play that needed some children, and also a woman to take an Irish role.

"My little brother and sister were engaged for the child parts and my mother, who had a wonderful brogue, asked for the Irish role.

"She wanted it so badly that when the man asked her if she had any experience she told a fib and said she had. I felt horribly guilty about this and on the opening night, when mother had to make her first entrance on the stage, I got my brother and sister in the dressing room, plumped them down on their knees with me while I prayed that God should not make mother fail as a punishment for her fib."

Mother did not fail, but she saw Mary would if something radical were not done, so she took her to New York.

Her first big success came when she appeared in the stage play, "A Good Little Devil."

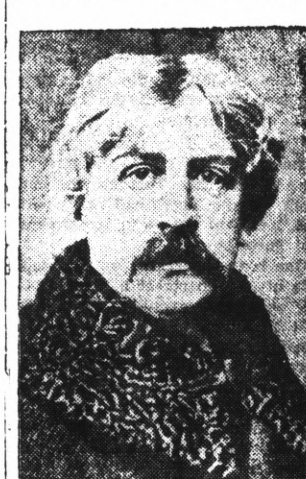

BRET HARTE'S HUMOROUS LOVE-MAKING

Bret Harte, is another of the famous American writers who enjoyed a happy married life, taking his place with Mark Twain and Hawthorne in this respect.

His wife was Anna Grswold, whom he married when he was only twenty-three. Nothing very spectacular has as yet been revealed of their courtship. But their happiness together after marriage is evidenced by a sheaf of letters which Harte sent her when he was on his lecture tours and during the political interlude in his life, when he was made an ambassador.

BRET HARTE

The following poem is one of the verses he wrote for his sweetheart. It is a humorous tid-bit, a relief of other famous lovers: Sonnet

Adapted to the latitude of San Francisco

O list, lady, list! while thy lover outside Pours forth those fond accents that thrill thee; O list! both thy doors and thy windows beside, For fear that some through draught chill thee. The sweet summer moon's hanging low in the sky, And the fox's drifting wildly around me; There's damp in my throat, there is sand in my eye, And my old friend Neuralgia has found me.

Check Signatures On Petitions for Bridge Franchise

The checking and verifying of the signatures attached to the petition to the Contra Costa county board of supervisors asking that the Northern California Development company be granted a franchise to bridge the straits of Carquinez from Eureka to the opposite shore, is occupying the attention of the county clerks' attaches at Martinez.

The petition bearing 5800 names, is said to be the largest number of names ever signed to a petition in Contra Costa county. Thirty-five hundred names of registered voters is sufficient to call an initiative election, if the supervisors refuse to grant the franchise.

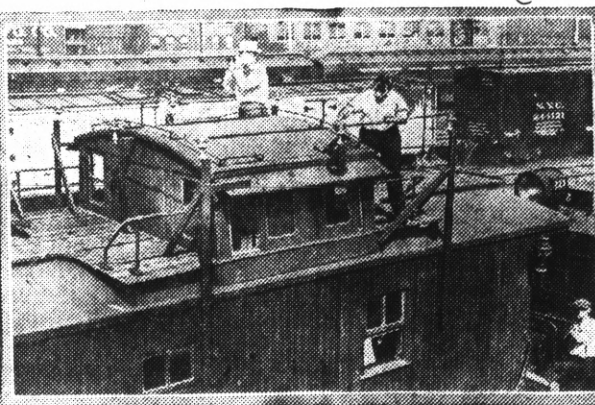

Fire Threatens Falsework Of the Carquinez Bridge

Fire on the Hanlon wharf paralleling the new Carquinez bridge near Crockett Monday afternoon for a time threatened to destroy the falsework of the bridge. A heated rivet falling among the cracks of the wharf is believed to have started the fire. The old wharf is being used for the assembling of parts for the bridge and a small portion of the approach was destroyed by the blaze.

The fire truck while rushing to the scene of the fire crashed into an oil truck at a blind corner, overturning and demolishing the oil truck.

Two Fires in El Cerrito

Two fires occurring at the same time kept the El Cerrito Fire Department busy yesterday morning. Fire believed to have been started when clothes hung to dry near a kitchen stove ignited and destroyed the home of Philip Cezola on Curtis street near Blake at 10 o'clock. The flames had enveloped the house before the arrival of the fire department. Before they could be brought under control, they had damaged the house and its furnishings to the extent of $500.

The second fire occurred on the hillside above El Cerrito and although they had spread over an area of sixty acres, no property damage was caused.
